FORTIETH YEAR NO. 6.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, 1917

PRICE, $1.00 A YEAR

National Bank Charter Granted

More than six months have elapsed since a movement was started here for a national bank to be known as "The Farmers' National Bank". The capital $50,000 was subscribed by citizens to the number of fifty or more. Such matters have to undergo investigation by the U. S. treasury department in Washington.

This was done by a man named Thomas who came here for that purpose. Granting national bank charters is also a perquisite of a congressman and those interested solicited Congressman Fess. A delegation waited upon him at his home where they were cordially received. He told them that his recommendation would not necessarily insure the granting of the charter, but that he had informed the department that he was familiar with the town and its people. That this was a very wealthy community with a large number of well-to-do farmers and that the field was a rich one for a national bank.

During all these months stock subscribers waited with patience when an excuse was received that election time made it impossible to get matters through the department. Some of the subscribers feeling that probably the department would not grant a charter favored starting a state bank. It is said that matters were just shaping themselves in that direction when the necessary papers arrived a day or so ago. Just what action will be taken now those interested are not ready to report. The requirements of the state are not as great as for a national bank.

Some of those interested in promoting the new national bank are R. C. Watt, George Sheets, W. H. Barber, M. W. Collins, N. L. Ramsey, John Stinson, J. C. Fowles, Harry Townsley, T. B. Meachling and a score of others.

MORE LIQUOR CASES IN MAYOR'S COURT

Four more cases brought against alleged bootleggers by state liquor license detectives were up for hearing in Mayor McGowan's court Tuesday and the session lasted until ten that night.

Some of these cases have been pending for several months, due to the absence of the state's witnesses as well as some of the defendants.

Like the former cases the state's witnesses could not be relied upon. Some of them flatly refused to stand by what information they had given the detectives several months ago. There is no question but that perjury was committed in several instances, yet the officials should have taken the character of such witnesses into consideration when the cases were filed.

The first case was that of Harrison Skingledocks, the prosecuting witness being Harrison Jeffries. There was no direct evidence as charged and the defendant was dismissed.

Frank Williams was found not guilty, the state expecting to prove such by the Dunn brothers.

Dick Jones was up on information given the officers by the Dunn brothers and A. C. Russell, a colored barber, who figured in former cases as prosecuting witness for the state. Russell admitted that he had been on a drunk for some time and that he gave Jones liquor. He said that Jones furnished him liquor. He named Tom Seward in place of Jones. Thus the Jones case collapsed and was dismissed.

John Jones, race horse driver, who has at various times figured in liquor cases, was up again. Three different counts were charged in the affidavit. It was necessary for the state to elect which one the defendant was to be tried upon. The third count was chosen and the court held Jones guilty on the third, that Ollie Williams had purchased liquor. Motion for new trial will be filed. If overruled counsel stated the case would be appealed.

It appears that the state was attempting to convict under the Beal local option law but offered no evidence to show that such law was in operation. A certificate from the clerk of court showed the county to be dry under the Beal law but Attorney Johnson held this law had been inoperative since the Home Rule amendment and that Cedarville was dry under the Beal law.

It has been evident from the start that the state was lame on evidence. It was also lame on legal talent. The cases not having any merit, should have been dropped. The trouble with the license department is that they are not on any sort of evidence as to the location of the saloons that they are on the job. In one instance the defendant, as well as the prosecuting witness, were intoxicated while on the stand. Such trials make law and justice a mockery and have a bad influence on an element of society towards disregard for law.

SWINE BREEDERS INSTITUTE.

The annual meeting of the Swine Breeders' Institute was held Tuesday at the Phillips House in Dayton. Mr. R. C. Watt of this place gave an address on "Whose Business, the Judge, Exhibitors or Farm Management, to Chase Objections to Animals Showing Out of Class." Mr. I. T. Cummins leads in the discussion. The annual meeting of the National Poland-China Record Association was held Wednesday at the same hotel.

BOARD ONLY SELLS ONE SCHOOL HOUSE MONDAY

Monday was the day of the sale of the school properties in this county that will be closed upon the opening of the new building. The law requires that the building be offered at public sale, but the board has a right to reject the bids. There being no bids satisfactory the property must be put up a second time. Should the bids be below what the property is worth then it can be sold at private sale.

The "Hazel Dell" in District No. 4, only drew a bid of $330 by Louis Dunn but it was refused.

The "Cross Roads" in District No. 5 brought $600 on the first bid and it was sold to Mr. G. H. Creswell.

The Kyle building in District No. 6 found only one bidder, $110, Mr. H. H. Stormont, but it was refused.

The two properties not sold will be offered again.

INCREDIBLE RESULTS STANTLE CEDARVILLE.

There has never been anything here with the INCREDIBLE results of simple lavapik eye wash. One man's eyes were so badly strained he could not read five minutes without pain. Two applications with lavapik relieved him. A lady had tried three different glasses for weak, inflamed eyes. ONE lavapik wash surprised her. We guarantee a small bottle to benefit EVERY CASE weak, strained or inflamed eyes. ONE WASH produces incredible results. A. E. Kleck, druggist.

Death Of Robert Hood.

The venerable Robert Hood, who passed his 88th birthday on January 8, died Wednesday afternoon following a few days illness with pneumonia and complications due to old age.

Mr. Hood was born in Livingston, N. Y. and came from a large family of brothers and sisters. He graduated from Union College and was admitted to the practice of law and also became a civil engineer.

His ability along the lines of the latter was evident from the many important positions he held and the public work that was built under his direction. In 1885 Mr. Hood surveyed an air line between New York and Cincinnati but the road was never built. He at one time was head of the engineering department of the O. H. & D. and D. and also the Erie. A section of the Erie canal across New York state was built by Mr. Hood, this probably being his greatest achievement.

The deceased was married to Miss Nannie Jackson on January 8, 1855, whose death occurred two years ago last Saturday. There was no family and the deceased is survived by three sisters living in New York and a number of relatives among whom are Mr. Andrew Jackson, his brother-in-law and Mrs. J. C. Barber, a niece.

Mr. and Mrs. Hood returned to this place in 1895 and have since then resided there.

The funeral will be held from the home on Saturday, at 10 a. m. The services will be conducted by Dr. Chesnut and burial takes place in Xenia.

SELLS FINE HORSE
FOR NEARLY THOUSAND
Mr. Harry Townsley sold his Percheron stallion, "Grimesmore," on Monday to Mr. Louis Funderburg of near Fairfield. The animal was coming three years old and was one Mr. Townsley had raised. He had placed a value of $1000 on the animal and when the deal was closed the check called for no more than that amount. It could be said that was almost the actual amount. The animal was an extra good one and has been trained by importers of that class of stock.

Menace of Dust. Dust is one of the great enemies of industrial workers. It destroys the power of the body to fight disease by clogging up the human machinery. It carries germs of disease into the system and gives them a breeding place to poison the worker until he is not fit to carry on his task. This means a small pay envelope. It often means the loss of a job entirely.

Much Too Late. The agent marched up to the front steps and rang the door bell briskly. "Good morning," he said, bowing politely to the maid who answered his ring. "Is the lady of the house engaged?" "Not now," responded the new maid brightly. "She used to be, but she got married more than a year ago."—Christian Herald.

Starry Time Story About a Very Lively Little Fisherman.

HE WEARS A HANDSOME COAT

Small but Fierce Creature That is Much Admired by Indians of British Columbia—Sometimes Steals the Farmers' Chickens.

Well, said Uncle Ben, as this is the season when furs are in fashion, I am going to tell you about A FUR BEARER.

The mink is a little animal that is found most anywhere in the northern part of our country. The creature is about fifteen or eighteen inches long, a relation to the weasel and the skunk and shaped something like they are. It lives along brooks and rivers in a burrow or hole in the bank. Its food is fish when it can get fish and frogs or small animals when fish is not to be had.

The mink will take birds, and sometimes it will go for the farmer's poultry. So when a country boy sees a mink near the farm he is apt to try very hard to catch it.

The mink is a cruel little animal itself and can fight bravely if cornered. His way of getting the fish is to trot along the bank of the stream until he sees one; then he will dive after it. He can swim under water as well as the fish, and if it tries to hide under a log or in a grotto under the water the mink swims right after it and, grabbing it in its strong jaws, soon makes short work of it.

The Indians of British America, way up in the far north, admire the mink very much. Indian mothers have a lullaby which they sing to their little ones, and it goes something like this:

See the merry mink there diving
In the water clear and cool,
For the speckled salmon, seeking
In the fish-creek pool.

Although the fur of the northern mink is much finer than that of the animals found in milder regions, mink can live in almost any of our northern states.

In winter Mother Nature gives the mink a thick and handsome coat, and it is then that trappers set traps to catch him.

No matter how cruel the mink may be, these traps are more cruel still, for the poor beast is held a living captive, sometimes for several days, till the trapper makes his rounds and puts him out of his misery.

Boy Scouts Patriotic.

A scout is a patriot and is always ready to serve his country at a minute's notice. He loves Old Glory and knows the proper forms of offering it respect. He never permits its folds to touch the ground. He knows how his country is governed and who are the men in high authority. He desires a strong body, an alert mind and an unconquerable spirit, so that he may serve his country in any need. He patterns his life after those of great Americans who have had a high sense of duty and who have served the nation well.

Winter in Florida.

While so many folks in the north are wrapped in furs and woollens, those who are spending the winter in Florida need no such garments. They lose, however, many pleasures that make cold weather very enjoyable to many.

people—old and young. For instance they cannot skate because there is no ice, and the only coasting they may do is on a roller coaster. Sleight riding is also an unknown sport where the warm sun shines. The little people here pictured probably don't give a thought to those sports because they are having a jolly time in the sand. No Jack Frost to nip their toes and color their cheeks.

The Hen.

The hen is such a funny bird. She only says a single word, and that sounds just like "Walk, walk, walk."

Why is it that she cannot talk?

I like to give her lots of grain At morning and at night again. She walks in such a dainty way I often watch her when at play.

Inventors Busily at Work

Inventors are just as busy inventing as ever, according to the Popular Science Monthly. Among the most recent inventions are the following: A wrestling dummy for gymnastic practice; a life-preserver which keeps its occupant afloat and warm; an instrument which enables you to see the sounds that you sing; a periscope attachment for field glasses; a combination Christmas tree-holder, telephone stand and taboret; a rain alarm to make the hired girl get up and close the windows; a machine that massages your pains away with air; and a mechanical telephone operator which takes down the number of a call or a message when you are out.

Beat Weather Man

Scientific weather prediction by man and animal instinct are being investigated at the University of Kansas. Two prairie dogs, in a cage in the basement of the university natural history museum, never fail to predict bad weather by going into their burrow and refusing to come out, even for food.

Sometimes before the government weather signals are flying on a nearby university building the two dogs have disappeared into their burrows.

They never yet have missed giving a correct forecast, although they live in a big room with heavy stone walls, where the temperature is approximately the same the year around.

THE DOG PROBLEM

Numerous complaints have been made about dogs running at large about town. This has been a common occurrence for several years back. What is needed is an official dog catcher and a place to send stray dogs to their happy hunting grounds. This week complaints were made by Will Lacey and Alva St. John about a dog that has the habit of jumping at a horse's nose or biting on the leg. This is a dangerous thing and came near causing a runaway. Most towns have a dog license but such a plan was never tried here. Dog owners that have a canine of any value will not hesitate to keep a license for him. There are half a hundred loose dogs about the streets that are never subject to any tax. The corporation can afford to have them killed and buried. This nuisance has been tolerated long enough. When animals are subject to attack, what about the children on the street?

Adam Exonerated.

SOME CONTRACT BURE

Reports are that the Ohmer Recording Co., Dayton, has received a contract from the Russian government for shells and war material that will not be less than forty million nor more than sixty million dollars. This concern has grown in the past three years to one of the largest in the country. For years the Cash Register Co. was the first in Dayton, now it ranks fifth in number of employees, which would indicate the size of the other companies that are making war material. Prosperity in Dayton is assured for months to come.

a fetching coat. Please don't fail to notice the grownup muff tipped with white fur to match her collar and trim.

YOUR FURS.

How to Care For Them So They Will Look New and Wear Long.

Many women have an idea that it is not necessary to take special care of good furs. They think that because the latter are a good quality they will stand more or less rough treatment and that they can be subjected to all sorts of variable conditions of weather.

Never hang wet furs near the fire to dry. In the natural state the animal, whose pelt has been converted into a coat of mottled or seal, dries itself in the open, and this fact should be borne in mind.

The bright sun is also harmful to good furs. In winter little harm is done in this direction, but furs carried to warm climates and worn even occasionally in a garish light are likely to lose the luster which comes to them, not only from natural causes, but also from the scientific dressing and dyeing to which many of the fashionable peltries are subjected.

For Dessert.

Orange Cream.—Take the well beaten yolk of one egg, one-fourth cupful of orange juice, one tablespoonful sugar; cook in double boiler until it thickens, stirring all the time to keep the mixture smooth. Remove from the fire, strain and pour into the white of the egg, which has been beaten dry; beat until creamy. This quantity fills two custard cups.

Friendship.

What is so great as friendship, let us carry with what grandeur of spirit we can. Let us be silent—so we may hear the whisper of the gods. Let us not interfere. Who set you to cast about what you should say to the select souls, or how to say anything to such? Wait, and thy heart shall speak. Wait until the necessary and everlasting overpowers you, until day and night avail themselves of your lips—Emerson.
